"Vision and Action" Panel Honors Women Faculty Pioneers and Looks to the Future

By Amanda Skofstad for Notre Dame News

At "Vision and Action: Pioneering Women Faculty at Notre Dame," a panel of six notable University of Notre Dame women - all with successful careers in higher education and beyond - reflected on past and present experiences and also paid tribute to the earliest Notre Dame women faculty, several of whom were in attendance.

The latter were women who, in the opening words of Charles and Jill Fischer Provost Thomas G. Burish, were ambitious for the future and "helped Notre Dame transform from a college for men to a university for all." Moderated by Mary Celeste Kearney - director of the Notre Dame Gender Studies Program and associate professor of film, television and theater - Vision and Action included a diversity of disciplinary perspectives and offered words of wisdom for fostering an inclusive climate for all faculty at Notre Dame.

the acquisition of the Milton V. Anastos Library of Byzantine Civilization and generous support from the Stavros Niarchos Foundation, the Mellon Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Medieval Institute at the University of Notre Dame is delighted to invite applicants for a nine-month Postdoctoral Fellowship in Byzantine Studies.

This fellowship is designed for junior scholars with a completed doctorate whose research deals with some aspect of the Byzantine world. The fellow is expected to pursue promising research towards scholarly publication and/or the development of new subject areas. This Fellowship is open to qualified applicants in all fields and sub-disciplines of Byzantine Studies, such as history (including its auxiliary disciplines), archaeology, art history, literature, theology, and liturgical studies, as well as the study of Byzantium's interactions with neighboring cultures. The fellowship holder will pursue research in residence at the University of Notre Dame's famed Medieval Institute during the 2017-18 academic year.

Career Services

Using Job Ads for Career Exploration

By Derek Attig for Carpe Careers

When it comes to careers, we tend to pay attention to what's right in front of us. And for most graduate students, that means academe. In graduate school, you are surrounded by other graduate students and faculty using similar kinds of skills to engage in similar kinds of tasks with similar kinds of goals. Immersed in all that similarity, it can be difficult to imagine or examine alternatives.

So how do you actually do that? How do you explore jobs that no one you know works in, jobs that you maybe haven't even heard of yet?

National Postdoctoral Association (NPA)

The NPA is a member-driven organization that provides a unique, national voice for postdoctoral scholars. Since 2003, they have taken on the ambitious agenda to enhance the quality of the postdoctoral experience in the US. They have assumed a leadership role in addressing the many issues confronting the postdoctoral community that are national in scope and requiring action beyond the local level.

- The University of Notre Dame is a sustaining member of the NPA.
- ND Postdocs can join the NPA for free.

The Art of "No"

By Robin Bernstein for Chronicle Vitae

Early in my career, I struggled to say no. I was asked to serve on committee after committee, to evaluate fistfuls of manuscripts and grants, and to perform dozens of other tasks, large and small. I said yes willy-nilly - often because of genuine interest, but other times out of a sense of guilt or obligation, and sometimes out of fear of reprisal if I refused.

But as I advanced in my career, the requests snowballed. Agreeing to do all of them - or even half of them - became impossible. I needed to figure out when to say no, and how to do it artfully. Five principles have helped me learn what to say, and what not to say.

Summer Course Offerings from the Writing Center

SCIENTIFIC WRITING (GRED 60500)

WHAT: Scientific Writing, 2-credit graduate course in scientific and technical writing

DATES: June 19-July 28

TIMES:

- Section 01: Tuesday, 1:00-3:05 p.m. and Thursday, 1:00-3:05 p.m.
- Section 02: Tuesday, 1:00-3:05 p.m. and Thursday, 10:30-12:35 p.m.

This course offers graduate students in the sciences and engineering a focused study of the conventions of scientific writing and fosters a clearer understanding of what constitutes good writing in these fields. Through close analysis of published scientific papers, guest lectures from faculty in the sciences and engineering, and focused writing activities in a workshop environment, students will hone their writing skills and make a clear plan for their continued development as writers in their home disciplines.

TEACHING WITH WRITING (GRED 60615)

WHAT: Teaching With Writing, 2-credit graduate course in the teaching of writing in your discipline

DATES: June 5-16

TIME: Monday-Friday, 9:00am - 11:30am

INSTRUCTOR: Matthew Capdevielle, Ph.D., Director of the University Writing Center

This course is for graduate students, postdoctoral scholars, and faculty looking to enhance their teaching by honing their skills as teachers of writing in their home disciplines. Participants will develop a deeper understanding of the role that writing plays in the learning process and will use that understanding to design writing assignments and activities that best support the learning
