

ND Postdoc Newsletter

January 30, 2018

Welcome to the Postdoc Newsletter's new look!

Postdoc Pathways Café

The second PPC series features Dr. Kristie Fisher who will join us on February 8 at noon!

Kristie is a user experience researcher at Google. Researchers at Google gather data and insights to inform all phases of the product development cycle. Kristie conducts foundational research to understand people's needs and define target groups for a given new product or feature, usability studies to help refine and iterate on ideas in partnership with designers and engineers, and survey and usage data analyses to understand how Google products are being used in the wild. Kristie received her PhD in cognitive psychology from the University of Washington in 2011, with a focus on problem solving and analogical reasoning. Before joining Google she worked as a user experience researcher at Microsoft Studios and as a contracted researcher at Microsoft Research.

Postdoc Career Advice

The Professor Is In: The Interdisciplinary Factor

By Karen Kelsky for Chronicle Vitae

How do you approach the job market if you are a traditional Ph.D. applying for an interdisciplinary opening, or vice versa?

Upcoming Workshops

2018 GCC Virtual Career Fair

The Virtual Career Fair is a single day, online career fair for advanced degree students, postdocs, and alumni, sponsored by the Graduate Career Consortium.

ND A PRACTICAL WORKSHOP ON
WRITING A CONCEPT NOTE

Workshop for Academic Researchers

Faculty and Postdoctoral Scholars

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2018

909 GRACE HALL, 10:00 AM – 12:00 PM

The two-hour workshop will include a discussion on types of funders, determining your fit with a program, developing a concept note, how to “pitch” the concept note to program officers and next steps to develop a full grant proposal.

WORKSHOP LEADERS

Yvonne Chang has her Master's degree in Environmental Engineering and Sarah Nerenberg has her Master's degree in Water Resources Planning and Policy. Combined, they have over thirty years of experience developing more than 400 proposals for government agencies, private clients (including Notre Dame), foundations, and corporations. They currently support the development of proposals at non-profits and educational institutions in Indiana and Illinois.
