Visual Syllabus Makeover
Kaneb Center for Teaching and Learning

In this workshop, you will use visual design principles to make your syllabus more attractive, efficient and effective. Perfect for postdocs who plan to teach in the fall!

Date: Friday, April 26
Location: Room 228 DeBartolo Hall
Summer Course: Teaching with Writing (GRED 60615, CRN 3980)
The Writing Center

WHAT: Teaching With Writing, 2-credit course in the teaching of writing in your discipline
DATES: Summer Session I, June 4-14
TIME: Monday-Friday, 9:00am - 11:30am
INSTRUCTOR: Matthew Capdevielle, Ph.D., Director of the University Writing Center and Director of the University Seminar

This course is for graduate students, post-doctoral scholars, and faculty looking to enhance their teaching by honing their skills as teachers of writing in their home disciplines. Participants will develop a deeper understanding of the role that writing plays in the learning process and will use that understanding to design writing assignments and activities that best support the learning goals of participants’ courses.

Topic include:
* Understanding the role of writing in the learning process
* Designing writing assignments to foster creativity, deepen understanding, and ensure academic integrity
* Defining standards for evaluation of student writing
* Sequencing writing assignments to optimize student engagement
* Commenting on student writing to maximize the learning benefit for students and minimize the time spent grading
* Using rubrics for assessment
* Handling plagiarism
* Productive conferencing with students (one-to-one)
* Talking with search committees about your writing pedagogy

You may be interested in other course offerings by the Writing Center as well. Here’s the link to the complete list of courses they are offering this summer.

Postdocs can enroll in these for-credit classes, by using the tuition benefit for employees of the University.
