PhD Career Pathways

This month's panel discussion focuses on job opportunities apart from the tenure-track for PhDs in the social sciences and humanities. Our three panelists are fantastic examples of how to succeed in careers outside of traditional academic paths.

Time: 11:11 a.m. - 12 p.m.
Wednesday, April 25, 2020

Postdocs on the Job Market: Diversity Statement Reviews
Pamela Nolan Young has graciously offered to review your completed diversity statements via a Zoom consultation.

Pamela Nolan Young was appointed Notre Dame's first Director for Academic Diversity and Inclusion in 2016. After graduating with a B.A. in government from Dartmouth College, Young received her J.D. from the Notre Dame Law School. Before turning to higher education, Young worked as a lawyer and consultant in roles such as Assistant District Attorney and consultant for the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

Please email your statement to Pamela at pyoung3@nd.edu and set up a time for your consultation.

Postdoc Interview Training Practice

Join Erik Oswald, Graduate Career Consultant, for an innovative new workshop to develop and practice your interview skills. In groups of three postdocs, you will rotate through the roles of interviewer, interviewee, and observer after a brief training session. Participant feedback from prior events has been positive:

“Having the chance to listen to other people’s interviews and then being able to interview in front of multiple peers (rather than just one), made the experience feel very real and, in turn, became a really great practice for a real interview.”

Please log on a few minutes before the workshop starts.

A Note from the Associate Program Director of the Office for Postdoctoral Affairs

During this unprecedented time, institutions of higher education, the federal government, and private companies are all adjusting their hiring procedures and timelines, we advise you to take this time to assess your career readiness.

Consider taking a few minutes each day to accomplish simple tasks, such as updating your CV or resume, or revising your teaching philosophy and diversity statements. Many job interviews are now being conducted online instead of in person, so make sure to familiarize yourself with virtual interview techniques.

Valli is happy to meet with you virtually to review your documents or practice for online job interviews.

Are you an Entrepreneurial Postdoc?

Are you an Entrepreneurial Postdoc?

Although research at Notre Dame has largely moved off campus, many of you will still be conducting research and publishing your findings over the coming months.

The IDEA Center would like you to know that it stands fully ready to assist you if either this work or any previous research has any commercialization of intellectual property potential. Because its operations do not require its staff to be physically present, there will be no slow down in its services to you. Furthermore, because their invention disclosure form has been online for over two years, how you disclose inventions remains unchanged.

The IDEA Center is ready to support your commercialization and intellectual property needs and hopes that it can take advantage of this time to advance your ideas forward.

Responsible Innovation Fellowship now accepting applications

The Graduate School, the IDEA Center, and the Technology Ethics Center at Notre Dame present a new opportunity open to doctoral students, postdocs, and law students: a one-year, NSF-funded fellowship program that combines cross-disciplinary collaboration, technology ethics, and commercialization experience. Called the Responsible Innovation Fellowship, it is a unique blend of practical and theoretical training; of education and implementation; and of insights and contributions from across disciplines. If you would like to explore how your interests and skill-set can contribute to shaping the future of ethical innovation, this program is for you. Fellowships carry a supplemental stipend of $3,000. The program will begin in Fall 2020. Applications are open now. Read more here.

Did You Know...

...that you can still participate in Notre Dame's very special Triduum and Easter liturgies from afar?

Triduum and Easter Liturgies Livestreamed from the Basilica of the Sacred Heart

Even though we cannot be present together physically, we look forward to gathering together virtually to celebrate the Triduum and Easter liturgies. These liturgies will be livestreamed on the Campus Ministry website and you are invited to join and pray with us. These liturgies will also be archived for later viewing on the playlist function of the video.

A worship aid (program) will be available on the livestream site as a PDF file for you to download or print.

Interdisciplinary Madness!

I work in          but get paid by          My Advisor is in

(Lab)            (Program)            (Department)

...but my real Advisor is in

(official part)            (Research Center)            (Basement of another building)

...even though my office is in (Most of my classes are on

(Stuff I haven't seen since High School)

(yet technically, my degree is in

(Major other than my undergrad's)

So basically, I belong
